Chief Public Defender Tobik expressed concern regarding the Public Defenders' office inclusion in the proposed salary study, in particular the supervisors in his office. Public Defenders George and Haller expressed concerns as to whether the limited focus of the study on the Prosecutor's office would impact the attorneys in the Public Defender's office. Chairman Wolff noted that while the attorneys in the Public Defender's office address salary issues through the collective bargaining process, the HRC will communicate to Council that the Public Defender bargaining unit attorney positions are currently linked to pay grades in the Prosecutor's salary structure through previous studies by the Archer company and that it is the HRC's expectation that any findings from the study of the Prosecutor's office will be without prejudice to the bargaining rights of the Public Defenders or the rights guaranteed that bargaining unit under Chapter 4117 of the Ohio Revised Code..
